Listened to By a Splendid Au-

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

FARMVILLE, VA., June 2.—Lieutenant-Governor Willard addressed the people of Farmville to-night in the Opera House. He expressed himself as exceedingly gratified at the reception accorded him here, his audience being one of the him here, his audience being one of the largest which has been seen at a politica omposed of representative citizens and yoters.

Mr. Willard was introduced by Mr.

J. Taylor Thompson, a prominent lawyer and orator, Mr. Thompson paying glowing tribute to Mr. Willard, closing amid tumultuous applause. Mr. Willard spoke for one hour and a half, during which he held the closest attention of his audience.

He impressed his hearers by his mani-He impressed his hearers by his mani lest deep convictions and lofty purposes He made no claims to oratory, but us He made no claims to oratory, but utterances were forcible and carried weight and conviction. He said that whether he won or falled in his candidacy for Governor, whenever the Democratic party asked for his services it could command them. He did not think the party owed him anything, and he asked for the high honor of being Governor upon the principles he enunciated and his past record.

It was charged that he was not a Vir-

It was charged that he was not a Virginian; he was not by birth, but he was by adoption. He had cast his lot with Virginians. "Virginia people are my people, and Virginia's God my God."

He sald he was charged with being a man of money, and yet he would venture to say there was not a man within the sound of his voice who was not striving to obtain all he could of earthly goods. He thanked God that the question is not what a man has, but what he does with it. One thing he could say was that not a dollar he possessed was wrung from ot a dollar he possessed was wrung from

it. One thing he could say was that not a dollar he possessed was wrung from a poor man or caused a tear from the widow's eye.

The speaker stood for progress in the old Commonwealth: better equipped schools, intelligent, scientific work upon the public roads, and paid a tribute to the Confederate soldier, which brought prolonged applause. On the subject of road improvement, Mr. Willard said enough "hot air" has been expended to macadamize every thoroughfare in Virginia. He believed that no one before him would live to see the day when Federal aid would be given to the States for road improvement. He strongly disfavored convict labor in competition with honest workers. The aim of Virginia should not be to make money on the unfortunates who wore the stripes, but its aim should be to reform and make of them better citizens. If Governor, he would advocate working the public roads with penitentiary convicts and jail sentened wisponers.

At a business meeting of the Pine Street Baptist Church last Sunday evening the pastor, Rev. J. B. Hutson, D. D., was asked if he would not take a trip to London in July to attend the great Baplist Congress of the world. The deacons presented the invitation by direction of the congregation. Dr. Hutson was so taken by surprise he asked that he might consider the matter for a week. It is expected he will make known his decision at the morning service to-morrow, and in consequence it is probable there will be an unusually large congregation at this church, which is so well known for its large attendance and good singing. On the first Sunday in next November, Dr. Hutson will have been with this church thirty-four years, and this will be the first weatino of any length of time he has over taken, not-withstanding he has more than i. Print Cloth Market.

(By Associated Press.)
FALL RIVER, MASS., June 2.—Sales in the print cloth market for the week, are estimated at 15,000 pleces.
So far as prices are concerned, the market has continued practically unchanged during the week, but a fair amount of business has been transacted with a strong undertone prevailing. The demand for goods, is a trifle improved, compared with the previous two weeks, trade being confined almost wholly to wide goods.
The future course of the cloth market, it is expected, will be governed, to a great extent, by further developments in the market for the raw material.

The Retail Market.

The people who have to do marketing this morning will find the market, better supplied with good things than it has been on any saturday of late, that is to say they will find a greater variety of good things. The market is much better supplied with fruits. Peaches, apples, bananas, pineapples, strawberries, and therries are to be had, at prices that are not considered unreasonable. Vegethat are not considered unreasonable. Vege-tables are plentiful and some are sell-chaper than a week ago. The market is very well supply and with sensonable fish. Several Women Fainted When They Realized What Might Have Happened.

Have Happened.

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, PA., June 2.—One of the most exciting and spectacular fires that have visited Pittsburg in recent years broke out in the Avenue Theatre shortly before 4 o'clock this afternoon, and before it was subdued, had completely destroyed the Avenue and partially wrecked the Grand Opera House, adjoining, but fortunately no panic resulted and no lives were lost. Mr. Davis says the loss on the Avenue building, furnishings, etc., will be $70,000; $25,000 on contents of basements, and $10,000 on the Grand Opera House, caused by smoke and water.

The losses are all covered by insurance.

The losses are all covered by insurance.

The cause of the fire is believed to be traceable to cross wires. The Avenue had been closed for several weeks, and no one was in the building except for watchman, but in the Opera House a matinee performance was in progress when the fire broke out. The house was about half filled, but, through the prompt and systematic work of the employes, the audience was gotten out without the semblance of a panic; indeed, the, majority did not know there was a fire until they had reached the streets.

Several women fainted when they came to realize what might have happened.

JWASHINGTON, D. C., June 2 .- Justice W. P. Stafford, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, decided an in-teresting case in favor of an old negro "auntie" this afternoon, and took occa-sion to denounce the negro lawyer, who, the justice charged, had tried to swindle sion to denounce the negro lawyer, who, the justice charged, had tried to swindle her.

The old darkey's name is Alice Virginia Carroll. She owned a house and lot here, which she sold to Perrie W. Frisby, the lawyer, for $8,500. He paid one-half cash, and for the rest gave twenty-eight notes. It was developed that the notes fall due in 1924, and when Aunt Alice discovered this, she saw that her desire to have an income for the remainder of her life would fall, as she expected to live off the notes as they came due. She found that the deed of trust, which she thought she had on the property to secure the deferred payments, was also defective. She brought a suit in equity to have the trust reformed, so as to carry out the intent of the granter.
